From fairy-tale castles to extraordinary buildings designed by the world's most distinguished architects, The Walt Disney Company has created exciting and influential architecture. The result, beautiful illustrated in this book is "architecture with a plot", a new approach to designing buildings.

For Gwendolyn Wright, the houses of America are the diaries of the American people. They create a fascinating chronicle of the way we have lived, and a reflection of every political, economic, or social issue we have been concerned with. Why did plantation owners build uniform cabins for their slaves? Why were all the walls in nineteenth-century tenements painted white? Why did the parlor suddenly disappear from middle-class houses at the turn of the century? How did the federal highway system change the way millions of Americans raised their families? Building the Dream introduces the parade of people, policies, and ideologies that have shaped the course of our daily lives by shaping the rooms we have grown up in. In the row houses of colonial Philadelphia, the luxury apartments of New York City, the prefab houses of Levittown, and the public-housing towers of Chicago, Wright discovers revealing clues to our past and a new way of looking at such contemporary issues as integration, sustainable energy, the needs of the elderly, and how we define "family."

many hands in many lands. It takes much more than ONE. Gorgeously written and illustrated, this is an eye-opening exploration of the many types of work that go into building our world--from the making of a bridge to a wind farm, an amusement park, and even the very picture book that you are reading. An architect may dream up the plans for a house, but someone has to actually work the saws and pound the nails. This book is a thank-you to the skilled women and men who work tirelessly to see our dreams brought to life.

How a building and the reaction to it signaled the end of an era; the transformation of architectural practice in the context of New York City culture and politics.

"Would you be surprised to find out that the Leaning Tower of Pisa wasn't supposed to lean? It started to lean while it was being built. Find out why the tower leans, as well as some of the crazy ideas people had for fixing it!"--Publisher's description.

Like many of us, you may stop short of fully pursuing the dreams God has placed in your heart. If you are dissatisfied in any area of your life, you have dreams that life can be better. This discontent is God's way of prompting you to pay attention and to take the steps necessary to grab hold of the life He has created specifically for you. What gets in the way of you taking those steps? In this faith-based approach to personal transformation, Pamela Pollock helps you move from the seed of a desire to the fruition of a dream. She shows you how to identify what stops you along the way and provides all the tools and strategies you could possibly need to help you get back on track and stay the course. Dare to Dream: The Art of Co-Creating With God is not for the faint of heart. It is for the heart that wants to soar. It is for the soul that has not yet taken flight but cannot rest until it does. It is for the man or woman who has lost sight of their dreams and needs help getting back on track. It is for the hopeless individual that wants to believe there is more to life but does not know how to pursue it. It is for those who want to learn to co-create with God.

Here is the ultimate resource for finally turning your dream into reality. With photos, blueprints, and diagrams, Fears thoroughly covers the process of constructing the cabin you've always wanted. From buying land, construction materials, deciding on lighting, the water system, and on-site constructions—such as shooting ranges, an outhouse, or an outside fire ring—this is a book filled with nuggets of wisdom from a specialist in the field: J. Wayne Fears is a wildlife biologist by training who has organized big-game hunting camps, guided canoe trips, and run commercial getaway operations. He built his own log cabin in the early 1990s and has been enjoying it ever since. Now you can build and enjoy the cabin you've always dreamed of, too.
